

American Literature - lecture

The course looks at the main developmental trends and canonical works of American literature from the 17th to the beginning of 21st century. The course aims to facilitate an understanding of similarities and differences of American literature in comparison with European literature in social, cultural and political contexts. The objective of the course is to make students aware of the chronological development of literature in the given period as well as to encourage them to develop critical thinking about challenges and solutions in literary texts.
