

Contemporary British Literature

The course is tailored to MA programme students, with the aim of deepening their awareness of modern British literature, with a special focus on authors who are not included in the BA courses English Literature II and Close Reading in English Literature II. The syllabus encompasses major prose writers of today, many of whom have been distinguished with prestigious literary awards, and also major modern poets. The choice of course material reflects the conviction that students of English need to have substantial knowledge of the literary underpinning of the language they are studying.
