

Social Psychology

The course in Social Psychology is a follow-up to the first semester course and extends its topics and scope. The focus of this course is on social behaviour and mental processes. Seminars are interactive and students are encouraged to apply acquired knowledge to their professional and private experience.